RELATING TO GOD AND MORALISM

Different people do have different beliefs as concerns different topics of life, even on who God is and even on whether he exists or not.

Based on a person's beliefs, somethings are held to be right, while others are held to be wrong. In fact, societies have this kind of arrangement. This arrangement is usually called Moral. It is the laws especially in the mind that approves a thing, person or action.

Every person has this thing called moral which is based on his view about God, experience and knowledge.

It is good to follow and practice your belief about God or religion as it would yied in you a good moral behaviour; nevertheless, studying or learning more about God from other perspectives is good as it would make you more liberal in your relating to God and fellow men.
